

“Email Your Representative” Template – Regulate All Emissions

Subject: A Simple Way to Make Our Net-Zero Target Achievable

Dear [Representative Name],

I’m writing because our country has a net-zero target, but our regulations still cover only part of the economy. Some sectors face clear rules, while others have no requirements at all. This patchwork makes it difficult - and in some cases mathematically impossible - to reach our national goal.

There’s a simple, fair solution: regulate all sources of greenhouse gas emissions with a gradual, long-term path to zero.

This approach doesn’t rush any sector. It starts everyone at 0% decarbonized and moves only as fast as global competitors. It protects competitiveness, creates clarity for businesses, and ensures that every sector eventually contributes.

A universal ramp would:

- close the gaps left by partial regulation
- give companies the certainty they need to invest and innovate
- ensure fairness by applying the same expectations to all sectors
- make our net-zero target credible and achievable

I hope you’ll consider supporting a whole-economy framework that brings every sector into the plan - gently, predictably, and over decades. It’s the simplest way to turn our climate commitments into a path we can actually follow.

Thank you for your leadership and your time.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]
